Three Astronauts Died Here

By JIM STROTHMAN

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The entire three-man crew of the Saturn Apollo 1 mission was killed last night in a flash fire aboard the huge spacecraft designed to take man to the moon.

Killed in the blaze were Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Gus Grissom, one of the seven original Mercury astronauts; Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II, the first American to walk in space, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee, a rookie awaiting his first flight in space.

The astronauts apparently died instantly. They were the first to be killed in a spacecraft and, died while on the ground.

Three other astronauts died in airplane crashes, in the line of duty, but yesterday's tragedy involved the first "on-premises" deaths in the American space program—the first time anyone was killed while in space hardware.

The fire broke out at 6:31 p.m. EST while the three men were involved in a full-scale simulation of the scheduled Feb.

21 launch that was to take them into the heavens for 14 days of orbiting the earth.

They were trapped behind closed hatches, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said.

Paul Haney, voice of the astronauts, said he understood there was a fire in the cockpit. He said monitors received no word from the astronauts during the fire.

Haney said 26 members of the launch pad crew were treated for smoke inhalation but that none was believed to be serious.

Haney said space agency officials were alerted by someone on the ground that the fire had broken out. He said emergency crews tried to reach the astronauts but were blocked by the dense smoke that rolled out of the cockpit.

The fire was reported during a "plugs-out" test of the booster and Apollo 1 craft. Haney said the test meant that the booster and space craft were operating on their own power systems and not power from the ground.

WARREN COUNTY

A 18-year-old youth who was injured Thursday morning when a stolen car he was driving crashed, was greeted by the Warren police chief and Tioga County probation officer in Warren yesterday. In a chain of events following the crash on Route 59 the boy was finally apprehended by borough police in the emergency room of Warren General Hospital. Page B1.

NEW YORK STATE

A four-month-old girl, Sharon Ann Kline, was killed yesterday when a fire swept through the first floor of a house just south of Brocton, N.Y. The owner of the house failed in efforts to reach the child. Page A5.

THE NATION

A storm that some people are already calling "the blizzard of '67" staggered Chicago and headed east. High winds and up to 25 inches of snow nearly paralyzed the city. Transportation was halted, the streets clogged with snowdrifts and abandoned cars, buses and taxis. Parts of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan were also hit hard, and storm warnings were issued as far east as New England.

THE WORLD

The Russians replaced the opponents of chairman Mao Tse-tung on the front pages of Peking newspapers Friday. The major Chinese paper, Jenmin Jih Pao, published a bitter denunciation of Soviet leaders for a disturbance in Moscow's Red Square the day before involving Chinese students. Meanwhile, thousands of Red Guards and students demonstrated all day outside the Soviet Embassy in the capital. Page A5.

QUESTIONNAIRE GOES OUT

County's Share of Bradford Airport Plan: About $25,000

Warren County may contribute at least $20,000 to $25,000 to a proposed regional airport authority.

County commissioners yesterday asked civic and business leaders whether they were in favor of a proposed expansion of Bradford-McKean Airport to handle jet aircraft. Such an expansion would entail a multi-county airport authority to handle financing of the project.

A questionnaire mailed by the county commissioners yesterday said:

"The first step in the program would be to increase the size of the present main runway to permit services by commercial jet aircraft. It is estimated that this would cost $800,000 with $400,000 in federal funds, $200,000 from state funds and $200,000 from local sources. Warren County's share would possibly be from $20,000 to $25,000.

"Further expansion would entail lengthening and resurfacing the secondary runway, constructing taxi space, erecting a service hangar, purchasing additional craft equipment and erecting a new terminal. This portion would be very costly and, at this time, Warren's contribution has not been estimated."

The commissioners' questionnaire asks about the extent to which Bradford, Jamestown and Warren airports are used by the person filling it out: the advantages for local companies of jets vs. non-jet aircraft are also covered, as well as other relevant information.

Two questions deal with financing:

"In the interest of future business are you interested in financially supporting an airport?"

"Do you think that the county should financially support an airport?"

The commissioners' estimate of $20,000 to $25,000 as Warren's initial contribution to a regional airport does not include the county's share of second-stage airport improvements.

Ralph Link, manager of the Eastern Division of the Federal Aviation Agency, said Jan. 21 that $800,000 would cover only the first step in airport expansion. Link said additional requirements (the "further expansion" mentioned in the commissioners' questionnaire) would have to be met if the proposed authority is formed.

As of last night, there was no estimate of how much the entire program would cost.

Major U.S. Banks Follow Chase's Cut in Interest

By GEORGE TAYLOR
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — First National City Bank of New York trimmed its prime interest to 5 3/4 from 6 per cent yesterday. The nation's largest banks followed, leaving Chase Manhattan virtually alone with its reduction to 5 1/2 per cent.

Within a few hours, Bank of America, the nation's largest, announced in San Francisco that it would join others in trimming its rate to 5 3/4 per cent.

Wall Street speculated how long Chase, the second-largest bank in the country, could hold out.

Chase declined comment. The prime rate is that charged a bank's most credit-worthy customers, usually large corporations. From it, all other interest rates are scaled upward.

Chase started business and financial circles Thursday by decreasing its prime rate to 5 1/2 per cent in the first major bank reduction in six years. The 5 per cent rate, reached at the height of the severe money pinch last August, was the highest since the early 1930s.

President Johnson hailed the Chase move as a contribution "to the sound and healthy development of the American economy."

He had called for easier credit in his Jan. 10 State of the Union message.

But some bankers called it politically inspired, precipitous and a case of bad judgment.

Usually, other banks quickly follow the lead of the major ones in the New York money market. But with one exception — First Western Bank & Trust of Los Angeles — Chase stood alone among the large banks.

THE U.S. IS COMMITTED

The possibility of bringing low-cost public housing to the Warren area was outlined yesterday by an economist from the Housing Assistance Administration.

At best, however, it would be at least three years before such construction could be completed, a county housing authority is appointed by the county commissioners. The borough would also have to agree to provide the same services to low-cost housing projects as is supplied to other residents in the municipality.

Jim Chmelik, economist for HAA, one of five departments in the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Renewal, said the federal government deals only with a housing authority. This would be comprised of five persons appointed for terms from one to five years on a non-salaried basis.

The authority can apply for any one of five federal low-cost public housing projects. One is the conventional type such as a 100-unit construction for housing for the elderly. An application would be made to HAA for approval of the program and a preliminary loan. If granted, an architect could be hired to draw up plans for the development. These would be forwarded to Philadelphia for review then to Washington for approval.

An annual contribution program would be set up to pay for the construction, bids accepted and the authority authorized to sign notes. The government would then float a bond issue to mature

Disarmament Plan For Space Signed By U.S., Russians

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomats from 60 nations signed the new peace-in-space treaty yesterday at an unusual White House ceremony which President Johnson described as "an inspiring moment in the history of the human race."

Representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain were the first to sign the document that aims at preventing territorial or military rivalries in outer space and at blocking the orbiting of nuclear warheads.

Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, after signing for the Soviet Union, told an East Room audience: "Let us hope we shall not wait long for solution of earthly problems."

Johnson, who proposed such a treaty last May, said that if disarmament on earth still remains a goal to be sought, "we can at least keep the virus from spreading" to space.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the treaty demonstrates that conflicts or disagreements among nations cannot be allowed to deter a persistent search for areas of agreement. Nations, he said, "must take even small steps" toward amity and cooperation.

The 2,000-word treaty seeks to block the orbiting of nuclear warheads or any other weapons of mass destruction. It aimed also at preventing territorial claims in space — such as asserting national title to real estate on the moon.

Other provisions ban military tests or maneuvers on the moon or other celestial bodies and call for the prompt return of any astronaut cosmonauts, and spacecrafts that might land accidentally on alien soil.

Earlier yesterday, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin presided at a similar ceremony in Moscow, where Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson signed for the United States. A third signing, which also drew American participation, took place in London.

The treaty, while drafted under United Nations auspices, resulted largely from negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union. This fact is seen as evidence that the two superpowers still can find areas of agreement despite the Vietnam war.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant in messages to Johnson, Kosygin and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson compared the new pact with the 1959 treaty neutralizing the Antarctic and the 1963 partial nuclear Test-ban agreement as "landmarks of man's march toward international peace and security."

Johnson proposed the treaty in a statement last May 7. The U.N. General Assembly endorsed the final draft on Dec. 19.

Most major powers and many smaller ones — including the Soviet Union and some of its East European satellites — accepted invitations to participate in the White House ceremony.

France did not. However, U.S. officials said they expect France ultimately will sign the treaty.

All nations are eligible to subscribe to the document — whether or not they are members of the United Nations and regardless of whether they have space programs.

Communist China has spurned the agreement.

The treaty states that the exploration and use of space, including the moon and other celestial bodies, shall be for the benefit of all mankind and that freedom of exploration and use shall be accorded all nations.

TRAILER BURNS

Woman, 87, Runs Through Flames

An 87-year-old woman who usually walks with the aid of two canes walked through a wall of fire early yesterday to escape from her burning trailer.

She is Mrs. Catherine Rasmussen, 87, of 230 Kinzua rd. Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department Chief Leonard Falbriski reported Mrs. Rasmussen awoke from her sleep by an explosion within the trailer and saw the front of the dwelling—and her exit—in flames.

Wrapping herself in a robe and a blanket she went through the flames, out the door and to the nearby house of her son-in-law. By the time he was awakened the whole trailer was on fire.

Mrs. Rasmussen was not treated although she was described as "darkened by soot."

Three fire engines and an emergency truck from Clarendon responded and 20 men worked to save nearby buildings; one of which was only about 10 feet away.

The cause of the blaze is still under investigation but the fire chief indicated it may have been caused by faulty kerosene heater within the trailer.

Firefighters, hampered by downed electric wires, used high pressure booster hoses to quell the flames before they returned to their homes at 3 a.m.

Before the federal government could give its program reservation, however, a certified workable program, such as is required in urban renewal, would have to be provided and approved as insurance the community will do its share.

When the Housing Authority enters into its agreement with the local governing body, the latter (borough council in this case) also agrees not to tax the property. The federal government pays 10 per cent of the shelter rent collected in lieu of taxes, a lower amount than if real estate taxes were levied.

Maximum construction costs are set at $18,000 per unit and must be built to last 40 years.

The second possibility, Chmelik stated, was the "turnkey" program. In this instance the Housing Authority enters into a contract with a private construction contractor, once plans are approved. Upon completion of the units, should the housing authority refuse to accept and pay for the project, the federal government takes over. Only one of the turnkey projects is in existence, that being in Washington, D.C. and slated to be completed in March. The economist advised that while there was a great deal of interest in this type of construction, he could not now predict its outcome. He did say a young authority would probably do well not to consider this program.

AT LEAST THREE YEARS AWAY

Explosion Is Serious Blow To Man-to-Moon Program

BY EVERT CLARK

(C) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Last night's tragic accident at Cape Kennedy is expected to deal a serious blow to the Apollo program, which has struggled hard to stay on schedule in the face of annual budget cuts.

Space officials have warned for several years that their margin of operation was thin, that continual economies imposed by the administration and congress left no room for failures if the moon was to be reached by 1970.

Since they first raised this cry, the mishaps have gradually accumulated.

Although it will be some time before the full impact of the accident can be assessed, it means more than the loss of a carefully selected, highly competent crew.

It probably means the loss of a spacecraft and possibly parts of the launching rocket. It also may mean damage to the launching pad that could delay a flight using the backup crew. A back-up crew flew the Gemini 9 after the original Gemini 9 pilots were killed in a plane crash.

Last March, President Johnson reaffirmed the goal laid down by President Kennedy when he announced the Apollo program in May of 1961. The United States, Johnson said, still intended "to land the first man on the surface of the moon" by 1970.

Johnson's words at the time were interpreted as an answer—and a bit of reprimand—to National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials, who had just been complaining to Congress about budget cuts made within the administration.

On the same day, Vice President Humphrey reminded the space leaders that their program "cannot be exempt" from tight budgetary discipline.

Following the ceremony at which Johnson made his remarks, James E. Webb, NASA administrator, said he believed an American could be put on the moon late in 1969. But he warned that there were not enough rockets for the usual amount of testing or for substitution in case one failed.

Then the technical setbacks that usually occur in a research and development program—chiefly losses of rocket stages in ground tests—began to add up. Only last November, NASA reshuffled the Apollo flight plans, canceling one set for 1968 and delaying for several months the first launching of an Apollo spacecraft aboard the huge Saturn 5 rocket that will eventually boost an Apollo to the moon.

Less than a week later the President himself sounded a note of caution. He said the Apollo program was "much more complicated" than the Gemini program that had just ended successfully.

Apollo, he said, "has more elements of as yet unproven capability... the months ahead will not be easy as we reach toward the moon. We must broaden and extend our knowledge based on the increased power of these mighty new boosters. But with Gemini as the forerunner, I am confident that we will overcome the difficulties and achieve another success."

White House officials said at the time that the President was not trying to warn that the 1970 goal might be missed. Rather, they said, he was cautioning that Apollo might not go as smoothly as Gemini had because of its inherently greater difficulties.

Despite these assurances, senior space agency officials said at that time the 1970 goals were "a reasonable possibility" but "no longer a sure thing."

There have been other technical setbacks since, including the explosion of a Saturn rocket stage last week at Sacramento, Calif., in which the rocket was destroyed and the test stand damaged.

Nevertheless, the budget sent to Congress this week by the President said: "The achievement of the manned lunar landing by 1970 will demonstrate clearly our position as a space-faring nation."

In his own message accompanying the budget, the President also spoke of the 1961 resolve to "send a manned expedition to the moon in this decade."

"Much hard work remains and many obstacles must still be overcome before that goal is met," he added.

Then the President went on to describe an ambitious post-Apollo program that would "set our course for the more distant future."

"Indeed, we have no alternative unless we wish to abandon the manned space capability we have created," the President said.

Despite the tragedy, Webb said here: "We'll go ahead with the space flight program."

MORE THAN 17 INCHES

Chicago Buried Under Snowstorm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A killer storm which smothered the Midwest with a paralyzing snowfall, and rendered Chicago a snow-heaped wasteland with the heaviest accumulation in its history, thundered toward the east yesterday.

The storm, which left at least 16 dead in Illinois, punished the nation's midsection with snows that closed schools, highways and airports.

Chicago was crippled by a 23-inch snowfall. All three major airports were closed and no schools were open. The expressway resembled huge parking lots. Sidewalks were impassable.

Hazardous driving warnings were issued for Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and lower Michigan, and for Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and northeast New York. Heavy snow was forecast for northern Maine. The hardship in Illinois and Wisconsin was furthered by the forecast of temperatures dipping to zero.

To add to the complex weather picture, tornado watches were issued for northeastern Maryland, most of Delaware, southern New Jersey, east-central Virginia and southeastern Pennsylvania.

The 23-inch snowfall in a 26-hour period shattered a 37-year record. It broke the 19.2-inch fall of March 25-26, 1930. It also broke the record for a one-day snowfall, 14.9 inches on Jan. 30, 1939.

The Police Department urged all Chicago workers to stay home. Most did. Chicago's normally bustling Loop was nearly deserted.

A severe ice storm knocked out power, crippled communications and closed schools over a large area of northwestern Ohio. Airports were closed, telephone communications were knocked out, and small communities were without electricity as high winds snapped ice-coated power lines.

Most of southern lower Michigan was practically isolated by winds, snow and icing rain—and the Weather Bureau said there was more to come. Lansing and Flint had record falls of 20 inches and the snow continued to fall. Kalamazoo had 17 inches in 17 hours.

Sleet and freezing rain coated a four-inch snowfall in Detroit. Some highways were plugged with drifts four feet deep.

The Chicago Board of Trade and the Mercantile Exchange were closed.

More than 500 buses were stalled on streets throughout Chicago. Most had run out of fuel. A woman was found dead in one bus.

More than 1,200 persons were marooned overnight in a fire house, including one man with diabetes. A helicopter brought insulin from a hospital.

Two men skied to a train station in Chicago.

At least a dozen babies were born at home. Two Calumet City, Ill., firemen fought on foot through 2½ miles of waist-deep snow Thursday night to deliver a baby — while getting instructions from a hospital by telephone.

A pathologist reported to work at a hospital in a skimobile, then rushed out to round up surgeons for an operation.

The snow stopped the mailman in Chicago. Food deliveries stopped.

Distribution of newspapers was cut drastically in Chicago. The Chicago Tribune said, "We have lost a number of trucks and don't know where to find them."

All main roads were closed in southeastern Wisconsin. Telephone lines were down, and scores of stalled cars blocked roads. The storm forced closing of assembly plants of the American Motors Corp. in Kenosha.

Possibly the worst storm in Indiana history isolated the northwestern part of the state. Freezing rain coated power lines which were then snapped by high winds.

Indiana State Police threw up roadblocks on highways to prevent more motorists from moving into the huge traffic jams of snowbound cars and trucks. Thousands of persons were marooned in public buildings, service stations and private homes.

An emergency was declared in Gary, which had 24 inches of snow with drifts up to 15 feet. Snowplows rescued 200 motorists during the night, many from cars which had been covered by drifts.

"I can't understand why some of them had not died," a weary state official said of persons in the buried cars.

At least five persons had died in Indiana because of the storm. Indiana Gov. Roger D. Branigin mobilized National Guard units with rescue vehicles to help the weary crews.

The snow stopped in Iowa after dumping about 14 inches on the southeastern sector, which drifted into four-and five-foot walls. Most schools and businesses were closed. Fort Madison had 14 inches, Burlington 13 and Davenport 12.

The storm left a heavy accumulation of snow, ice and plenty of trouble for the highway department in Missouri. Hannibal had 14 inches, Macon and Kirksville 11. There were thick layers of ice covering the snow in many areas. More than 4,000 families in Kansas City were without electric service Thursday night.

In the southeast, two ships groping through fog-shrouded Chesapeake Bay collided off Smith Point Light near the mouth of the Potomac River 60 miles north of Norfolk. The 34 crewmen aboard one vessel were removed.

Scattered power failures were reported across western New York because of ice. A short in a 69,000-volt transmission line cut off power up to three hours for thousands of persons near Rochester.

Strong winds helped blow away a layer of heavy polluted air in Philadelphia after an emergency citywide air pollution alert that lasted 19½ hours.

In the west, 12 inches of snow hit Crater Lake, high in the Oregon Mountains.

Briefly Speaking

A two-car accident on Fifth ave. near the intersection of Market st. yesterday evening resulted in total damage of $325. A car being driven by Paul W. Welmer of 320 Crescent pk. struck the parked car of Barbara J. Conway of Tallahassee, Fla. when, according to the driver, he was crowded by an oncoming vehicle. Sgt. Roger Thelin of the borough police investigated the accident.

Ralph M. Besse, president of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, Tuesday was also named chairman of the company's board of directors. He is continuing a 38-year legal and executive career that began when he joined the law firm of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey.

Stockholders of Quaker State Oil Refining Corporation will receive a 40-cents-a-share dividend payable March 15, according to an announcement made by directors Thursday. Financial statements were not available to determine consolidated net profit for the year, but preliminary data indicated a favorable increase in sales revenues and profit in 1966.

FRANKLIN—Appearing at the Franklin High School this evening will be the young violin virtuoso, Regis Pasquier.

New York Weather Is Growing Worse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Freezing rain and sleet gave way to showers and high winds in wide sections of Upstate New York yesterday, causing numerous power failures and destruction of buildings in some rural areas.

In the Town of Hector, along the eastern shore of Seneca Lake, gale-force winds hurled a tin-roofed cattle shed on the dairy farm of Dan Murphy 300 feet. Most of the wreckage landed along Route 414 and on a neighbor's lawn.

Nearby, a storage building on a farm owned by the state agriculture commissioner, Don J. Wickham, was almost completely demolished. Only the west wall of the frame structure was left standing.

Trees also were uprooted or torn apart. No one was reported injured, however.

"It was like a tornado. The winds were roaring and howling," James Hazlett, a fruit grower in the area, told reporters.

Telephone and electric service were disrupted in that area and in the vicinity of Syracuse. Earlier yesterday, freezing rain and sleet coated many roads in Western New York and led to power failures, some school and factory closings and numerous traffic accidents, two of them fatal.

Gordon Bolstad, 41, was injured fatally when his car and a tractor-trailer collided at an intersection in Buffalo.

In Elma, east of Buffalo, a car skidded on Route 77 and overturned, claiming the life of Ralph Konieczny, 23, of Strykersville.

Thousands of customers in northwestern Monroe County went without electricity for as long as three hours when severe icing caused a short circuit in a 69,000-volt transmission line.

Hay Brings Arrest

TITUSVILLE—Eugene Beard of Cochran was one of two truck drivers recently arrested in the State Agriculture Department's campaign to halt shipment into Pennsylvania of non-fumigated hay from areas infested with cereal leaf beetle. The other arrest was made in Lancaster county.

Apollo Explosion

NASA officials said the astronauts' bodies were being left in the spacecraft in hope they would provide investigators some clue as to what had touched off the disastrous fire.

Grissom, 40, was known as the hardluck astronaut. He was one of the famed Mercury astronauts chosen to pioneer America's space efforts in 1959.

Grissom flew the second U.S. manned space flight on July 21, 1961. He barely averted drowning when he had to swim for his life as the Mercury spaceship, Liberty Bell 7, sank.

His first flight lasted 15 minutes. On March 23, 1965, Grissom teamed with Navy Cmdr. John W. Young to fly this country's first three-orbit mission in Gemini 3.

During the Gemini 3 flight, Grissom became the first man to maneuver a spacecraft in space. A short, crewcut, father of two, Grissom then was to have the honor of being commander of the first flight in another new program — one that would take man to the moon aboard an Apollo spacecraft by 1970.

White, 36, spent 21 minutes outside Gemini 4 on America's first spacewalk. He and Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt went on to complete a four-day mission, at that time the longest on record.

White, also the father of two children, was a native of San Antonio, Tex. He was born into a military family and went on to graduate from the U.S. Military Academy.

Chaffee, 31, was a would-be spaceman who joined the program with the third group named in October 1963.

NASA officials said the Apollo escape system could not have been used. The system required an astronaut to trigger a rocket attached to the top of the Apollo. The rocket would jerk the spacecraft away from its booster.

A spokesman said a gantry was wrapped around the entire rocket during yesterday's test enclosing the escape rocket. He said the only way the astronauts could have escaped would have been to open the hatches and scramble out.

Haney said the rehearsal had reached the minus 10-minute mark, meaning it was 10 minutes away from a simulated liftoff. The hatches were sealed.

NASA officials said minor difficulties had cropped up during the countdown with two systems, a communications system and the environmental control system.

Officials said they did not know whether the fire stemmed from the two troublesome systems.

NASA officials said the three victims possibly had no knowledge there was a serious problem aboard. The spacecraft and rocket were not fueled and explosive devices aboard the spacecraft had been deactivated and could not have caused the disaster, they said.

Escaped Convict Pardoned

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Robert Lee Addison, who as "Robert Roy Clark" led a model life after escaping a Virginia road gang 31 years ago, was granted a pardon yesterday by Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr.

The pardon came exactly one month after Addison, 55, had been tracked to his home in Kopperston, W. Va., and taken into custody by the FBI. He was brought to the state penitentiary here on New Year's Eve.

Since then, letters had flooded Godwin's office — including one from West Virginia Gov. Hulett Smith — urging clemency for Addison. Friday morning, Addison himself talked with the gov. for an hour.

Godwin said he acted after considering reports from Gov. Smith, the Virginia Parole Board, "and from many individuals who recommended the pardon, including citizens of Floyd County, Ky., where Addison lived and worked for two decades prior to his residence in West Virginia."

Addison was serving a five-year term for malicious wounding when he escaped a state road camp in Fauquier County on May 16, 1936.

He fled to Kentucky, where he reigned his young wife, in his subsequent years, spent mostly as a coal miner, the couple raised six children — three boys, three girls. But always Addison lived in fear of discovery.

The fear was realized the night of Dec. 27 when the FBI knocked on his door at Kopperston as he worked on a broken washing machine in the basement. He came quietly.

But authorities moved swiftly to effect his release after an account of the case appeared earlier this month in the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot. Godwin's pardon came 12 days after the newspaper story was printed.

SALES SLUMP BADLY

Auto Dealers Say Credit Too Tight

NEW YORK (AP) — Auto dealers pinched by a new car sales slump now in its tenth month—place a major share of the blame on tight credit.

Other factors cited in a nationwide sampling of dealer views included rising taxes, the huge sales of 1965 and 1966, the higher cost of living, apprehension about the safety of 1967 models, the large number of men in the armed forces, and the threat of the draft to prospective young buyers who are eligible for Selective Service.

The sales slowdown has forced production cutbacks by General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and American Motors. With 15 to 20 per cent fewer cars finding buyers than in 1966, some 20,000 auto industry workers face layoffs.

Noting that 1965 was the record year for new car sales and that 1966 was the second best, Ed Amory, sales manager of Williams Rambler agency in Detroit, advanced this theory:

"I think the market is saturated and there's a slack period for two or three years."

In Dallas, Tex., Bill Clark, whose father owns John M. Clark Rambler, summed up the tight money aspect this way:

Burglars Hit Store, Crack Safe for $500

JAMESTOWN—Burglars ripped open an office safe at Sharp Plumbing and Heating Company at 500 W. Fourth st., Jamestown, and stole nearly $500.

The burglary, discovered yesterday, is being investigated by Jamestown Police.

The thieves reportedly entered the building by smashing a window.

Film on Program

A film "Take a Deep Breath" will highlight the dinner-meeting of directors of the North-western Pennsylvania TB and Health Society, scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Feb. 2 at the Holiday Inn South, near Erie. Reports on recent activities will be presented.

If They Have Mice, Senators Need Cats

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Lothar Kendell yesterday said if Congress has mice, it needs a cat.

"And we will be very happy to supply one on request," declared the 66-year-old president of the American Feline Society, Inc.

Intrigued by word from Washington that a lone mouse has been spotted in the $122-million new Rayburn House Office Building, Kendell said: "There is no such thing as just one mouse, Congress should contact us immediately."

Kendell said it was no great stigma for Congress to have mice.

"The best people have them, and the cure is one of our other-wise homeless cats," he said.

"Take the United Nations, for instance. When they moved into New York City from Lake Success a decade or so ago a number of mice made the trip in their filing cabinets."

"We fixed them up with a cat who made the place safe for the office girls in short order. The cat used to sleep on a Chinese dictionary."

Kendell, who has headed the cat charity organization since 1944, said the society has branches in 29 countries.

ONE LEFT AGROUND

Two Ships Collide; No Injuries Told

By HARRY NASH

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A U.S. freighter and a Liberian ore carrier collided about dawn yesterday during heavy fog in Chesapeake Bay some 60 miles north of here.

The U.S. Coast Guard reported no injuries, but said both ships — heavily damaged — were aground. It evacuated the crew of one ship.

Several hours later, near Baltimore, Md., the Coast Guard's sailing ship, the barque Eagle, and the Philippine tanker Jose Abad Santo also collided. No injuries were reported.

The Coast Guard said 32 crewmen and two Chesapeake Bay ship pilots had been removed from the ore carrier Borodo, which had been bound for Baltimore. The ship's master, first mate and chief engineer stayed in the area aboard a patrol craft.

The remaining 29 crewmen were bused to Baltimore.

Antonia Garcia Elorriaga of Coruna, Spain, second mate on the Liberian ore carrier, said he was asleep at the time of collision. He said the ship was heavily damaged in the front forward section and began to take on water.

Point Highland out of Crisfield Md., said the cutter arrived on the crash scene about 8 a.m. in zero visibility and found the bow of the Borodo "just about awash."

Rodgers said the crew left the ship by lifeboat, with five crew members and the two pilots staying aboard until it appeared the ship might sink.

The 39 men on the freighter Beaver State, bound from Baltimore to New York en route to the Far East, remained aboard.

The Coast Guard reported the Beaver State had been beached in a safe place and did not need immediate assistance. It said the Borodo had stopped drifting and was aground half a mile from Smith Point light station, near the collision scene.

The Coast Guard said the four ships involved in the two widely separated Chesapeake Bay accidents apparently collided because of visibility limited by the extremely heavy fog.

Pollution Threat Decreases

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rain washed away the stagnant air over the Philadelphia area yesterday and city officials lifted an air pollution alert.

Weatherman Robert B. Wasall predicted the rain, which began at noon, would mean fresh clear air by Saturday.

Dr. Norman Ingraham, city health commissioner, lifted a 19½-hour citywide pollution alert about three hours before the rain started. The alert, second in the city in less than two months, was similar to ones called in New York City and for the entire state of New Jersey. The Jersey and New York alerts also were canceled Friday morning.

During the emergency, the city asked major fuel-using industries to curtail operations and switch to cleaner fuels. City incinerators also were cut back in operations.

The pollution alert followed weather conditions which kept warm moist air—with temperatures near 70—trapped near the ground, under a layer of cold air.

Ingraham said the response of industry was "very good" to the alert.

Worthwhile and Beneficial

The expanded Adult Education courses just announced by the Warren County School District are a welcome addition to the county education program. The evening classes open Monday.

Eight different subjects are being offered by the school system in its 1967 night school classes. These include advanced typewriting, business English and communications, shorthand (beginning), basic quality control, advanced drafting, basic drafting, beginning bookkeeping and beginning typewriting.

The selection of the program was based on applications received a week ago in which interested persons signified their needs and desires. Three or four other subjects

Shafer Follows Tradition

HARRISBURG — Newly inducted Governor Shafer, in raising the battle cry of "economy in government" in one of his first moves as Pennsylvania's newest chief executive, has followed tradition almost to the letter!

Hardly a new Governor of recent note has failed to sound the challenge, issue the order — and then forget about it as the morass of new responsibilities and detail smother him up to his gubernatorial scuppers.

This economy/efficiency thing seems to have almost assumed an aura of tradition for a new commander-in-chief of Pennsylvania's army of 80,000-odd state payrollers.

As far as this scribe can recall during the tenures of the past seven chief executives who have graced Capitol Hill, this battle cry has become almost a hallowed mandate.

What inevitably happens however is that instead of a decreasing cost spiral, the spiral is upwards as many moons have flitted over Capitol Hill and the gubernatorial sanctum.

The question is whether it will be this way in the case of the new Shafer Administration — and chances are excellent it will.

Of course to the new young bloods who make up the greater portion of the Shafer Cabinet the call to arms on the economy/efficiency front is a new and challenging (to them) edict. Unquestionably (as per tradition) they will carry out the chief's command — in the early uninitiated stages, but then they too will fall victim to confusing new pressures, duties and whatnot, to ultimately let the clarion call wait silently over the bog.

There is for example, the question of attendance of state jobholders at meetings, conventions and the like.

Mr. Shafer (rightfully) has proclaimed that he just can't see the point in sending five payrollers to a convention or conference when two could do the job just as well. (For the record, one could do the job just as well, and in many instances not even one is necessary — except from the standpoint of the bureaucrats involved.)

Much of the heavy expense in this travel area results from out-of-state travel to distant gatherings. Interestingly, while this has been one of Mr. Shafer's clarion-calls-to-arms to his department heads — it can be controlled by the Governor himself!

The simple reason is that all out-of-state travel must be approved by the Governor (that is, the "Governor's Office") be-were offered but the applications did not meet a figure justifying their inauguration at this time.

With the school facilities and teachers available for these classes, it is gratifying that the School Board has made the expanded program possible. The cost to the enrollees will be nominal.

Those seeking the additional education and training will benefit directly, many with material benefits in the way of advancement and increased remuneration, and the schools will be making available facilities to serve another segment of the county's citizens.

It has all the earmarks of a worthwhile and beneficial program.

WALTER LIPPMANN

A More Candid Budget

Compared with last year's budget, the present one is a refreshingly straightforward piece of estimating and accounting.

Gone is the absurd assumption made last year that the war in Vietnam would be over by this summer.

Because of this assumption last year's (1967) budget estimated that war would be $10.5 billion. It is now calculated that the war is actually costing nearly twice as much — $19.9 billion. As a result, the administration is compelled to ask for a supplemental defense appropriation of $12.3 billion.

Lippmann

The false estimate in last year's budget is one of the principal items in the credibility gap. We have now an attempt to make a truer estimate, an attempt, that is, to forecast expenditures 18 months ahead.

The 1968 estimates, says the President in his message, put defense requirements for the next 18 months "on a continuing basis, including the possibility of an extension of combat beyond the end of the fiscal year" (June 30, 1968).

In explaining the budget to the press on Jan. 23 a defense official said that "We have prepared the budget on the assumption that the conflict will go on indefinitely." This may not be cheering, but it is sound.

Gone also from the new budget is most of the phroness of last year's State of the Union message in which the country was told that we could fight the Vietnamese war and build the Great Society at one and the same time.

Last year's budget message, to be sure, was a good deal more sober and less rhetorical than that. This year both the message on the State of the Union and the budget deflate the promise to build the Great Society in wartime.

The 1968 budget promises to carry on the welfare programs, but not to expand and accelerate them as originally intended. The estimates are consistent with a pause for the re-examination of the welfare programs.

On the explosive question of attempting to construct an anti-missile defense the President has proceeded with prudence, starting from the fact that, while it may conceivably be possible to invent and construct a reliable anti-missile defense, no such anti-missile defense actually exists today, here or in Russia.

He asks for $421 million for further research and development in this field. But he adheres firmly to the tested and proven defense against nuclear attack which is to maintain deterrent power—that is to say, to be able to retaliate decisively after an attack has been launched.

Consequently, he asks for $325 million to convert submarines to carry the Poseidon, the missile "designed to increase significantly our ability to penetrate an aggressor's defense."

This is coupled with the attempt, which is in able hands, to negotiate with the Soviet government a standstill agreement on nuclear defense against missiles. This would be to prevent another upward spiral in the costs and dangers of the nuclear conflict. Here the President has acted with understanding and good sense.

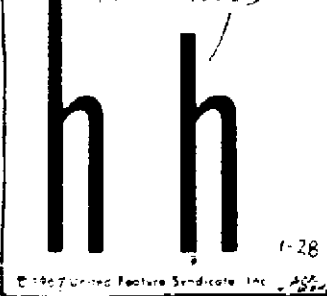

The reassuring characteristic of the budget is that it is realistic, candid and modest in its claims and promises. There are some who are interpreting this change of mood to mean that the President has grudgingly resolved to pursue military victory and to abandon the quest for a negotiated settlement.

Without professing to know what he really thinks in the privacy of his mind, I see no reason why realism and candor about the war itself are not compatible with, indeed necessary to, realism and candor about the purposes and prospects of the war.

A Modest Proposal

WASHINGTON — In the proliferating literature on the terminal cancer that threatens our great cities there is a new and ominous phenomenon of great importance.

The ghettos are the heart of the illness. And new studies of the "Negro Subculture" of the ghettos are now appearing which might well be taken for vicious racist tracts if it were not for their impartial, anthropological, Freudian-permissive tone. An example is the work of Lee Rainwater, done for the National Institute of Mental Health and partly published in Daedalus.

These studies suggest, by implication, that there is no practical way to attack the urban cancer. But this, one must hope and believe, is no more than pseudoscientific nonsense. It ignores, for one thing, the real history of the ghettos.

The urban ghettos only became the nightmare quarters that they are today when they were swamped, postwar, by the vast inpouring of southern rural Negroes. And among all these immigrants, the central, predominating, fatal handicap was their tragically deficient education which left them unable to cope with urban life.

What has been caused by deficient education can surely be undone by adequate education, at any rate for the children of the ghettos. But the dire poverty of ghetto experience, going so far as crippling speech impoverishment, creates an educational need that is enormously difficult to meet. No real attempt to meet this need has ever been made, in fact, in any American city to date.

The need is for a wholly new kind of public school system. Such a system would absorb the children much earlier, at the age of four or even three, it would teach the children in classes less than half the present size, with 15 pupils as the absolute maximum. It would have many other radically novel features, such as the organization of the schools as around-the-clock neighborhood centers and especially as recreation centers for the children.

This is no place for an essay on educational methods. Enough has been said above to indicate the most important point, that this kind of radically improved school system will be vastly more expensive than anything we have today. Yet every nickel spent will produce a dollar's worth of return if only this kind of school system proves able to pry open the door of the ghetto-trap for the next generation.

There are two difficulties. First, doubts have been raised about the effectiveness of this kind of educational investment by such studies as Rainwater's. Second, experiments with a single school, such as that proposed by Prof. Julian Levy of the University of Chicago, will start under too heavy a handicap, for the children of the unimproved school in the next block will pull down those in the improved school.

A whole neighborhood, like Bedford-Stuyvesant in New York, or a whole city, like Washington, must be the scene of any fair test. And why not choose this wretched District of Columbia with its schools which are 92 percent Negro — this unrepresented national capital which is really one vast ghetto masked by a thin white federal facade?

The current district school budget is $110 million. President Johnson has just requested an increase to $164 million which will permit patching and patching on a considerable scale. But what is wanted is general reconstruction, radical improvement, total reform. Let the budget be tripled, then, to $330 million, and let another $100 million be voted for capital construction to reduce classroom size.

These may sound like huge sums to spend on education in a single city, but in its absent-minded way the federal government is currently pouring out over $4 billion per annum in various kinds of aid to education — most of it in aid to middle- and upper-class education.

Cannot the amount needed to test education aimed to liberate the children of the ghettos be chipped off the sums allocated to improve the education of the more fortunate?

A Blow to Free Education

John T. Connor resigned as Secretary of Commerce on January 18, 1967.

As early as July 18, 1966, the Washington Merry-Go-Round by Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported categorically that Connor was not getting along with LBJ and that his resignation was in the works.

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his grandson, George L. Arnold Jr., in Los Angeles.)

Washington, D.C. Jan. 25, 1967

Dear George: I see that you have been having some troubles with your colleges out there in California. I hope this will make you think twice about where you go to college and that you will now decide to come east where we keep politics out of our colleges.

Of course I am partly joking and partly interested in the fact that we would like to have you closer to Washington so we could see you often.

But quite seriously, I suspect a lot of parents will be thinking twice about California education. This is too bad, because the University of California is one of the great educational institutions of the United States and now rivals Harvard.

Of course Harvard got a head start. It was founded in 1636, and the University of California was not established until about the time Abraham Lincoln signed the Land Grant Colleges Act in 1862, the same year he issued the Emancipation Proclamation freeing the slaves. Though Lincoln became famous for freeing the slaves, he is almost unknown as the founder of what is almost a system of free education. Yet in the long run that has had almost equal impact on America.

Prior to that, young men in this country could not go to college free, and as a result very few went to college at all. The eastern Ivy League colleges were private institutions, endowed by churches and philanthropists, and for many years beyond the pocketbook of the average boy. Now they have scholarships and job opportunities. So it was a truly historic event when Lincoln paved the way for a chain of colleges across the United States which charge little or no tuition.

These land grant colleges, including the University of California, became colleges of the people, by the people and for the people. In the United States, as a result of land grant colleges, we have nearly 20,000 young men per million in college, and this is expected to increase to 22,500 shortly.

Of all the state universities, California has been far and away the best. It took about a hundred years to build it to a point where in some respects it has been ahead of the Ivy League colleges—until last week.

After Gov. Reagan was elected to run your state, I wrote a column saying that one of the first things he would do would be to fire President Clark Kerr of the University of California. Some of my editors thought I was crazy.

I wish that I had been wrong. Perhaps more important than Kerr's dismissal, Gov. Reagan now may charge tuition of $400 a year.

This will mean that a lot of new students will not be able to go to California colleges, which will be a handicap for the rest of their lives. This is what I especially wanted to write you about, because the boy who doesn't go to college has a definite handicap.

It isn't merely that he may be classified I-A and end up not in the classroom but on the firing line. It's also estimated that when a boy goes through grammar school but drops out of high school, he'll earn only $150,000 during the rest of his life. If he goes on through high school, he'll earn $275,000. If he continues on through college, he'll earn $470,000. Therefore a California high school graduate unable to pay $400 a year college tuition now will lose around $200,000 in earnings over his lifetime.

In Atlanta, Ga., the other day I talked to Mayor Ivan Allen who told me that the reason the Negro population of Atlanta had so greatly improved is the fact that the city has five Negro colleges and any Negro boy who graduates from college can get a job immediately.

Here in the East, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, a Republican, is busy establishing 56 new state colleges in New York. He's trying to equal the record of the former governor of California, Pat Brown, who established 60 new community colleges and expanded the University of California to nine campuses. Gov. Rockefeller takes pride in declaring that New York will overtake California by 1972, when it will have 225,000 young people in state colleges.

When Thomas Jefferson died, he asked that his tombstone bear the inscription not that he had been President of the United States but that he was founder of the University of Virginia. I suspect Lyndon Johnson will also want to be known for his record of putting one million more students in college through loans, scholarships and job opportunities, and for increasing education to take care of seven million more students.

Twenty-four hours after taking office, Gov. Reagan started doing the reverse of Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, and Lyndon Johnson. I hope that on his tombstone will not be inscribed "the conservative governor who failed to conserve the youth of California."

But maybe he's done me a good turn by persuading you to come east to college.

Lots of love,
Your Grandfather

Dismissal Of Clark Kerr

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
BERKELEY, Calif.—It is a maxim of Democratic politics that strong men eventually and almost inevitably inspire the opposition forces that bring them down.

This is happening now in Washington where every victory by the strong-willed secretary of defense, Robert McNamara, assures him another few enemies and brings him closer to retirement. And this rule of politics and physics—that force creates an equal counter-force—is apparently what ended the remarkable career of President Clark Kerr at the University of California.

He was the commanding figure of this great institution. At one time or another he fought the politicians, the regents, the faculty, the Birchers, the far right, the far left, the students and the non-students, and in the end this episodic struggle created an atmosphere of contention and a coalition of forces that led to his dismissal.

"A great university," he wrote in his university plan for the next decade, "has a duty to the future as great as its duty to the present. Intellectually, it must be both more conservative of established values and more bold in trying innovations than may be fashionable at any given moment. It must maintain scholars in studies which a layman might consider arcane. It must support novel exploration which most people consider speculative. It must take the long view and may often have to defend the unpopular."

"Neither immediate benefits, nor the desire to ally criticism, nor honest exasperation with troublemakers must tempt the University of California to impair the right of scholars to search and discuss what they find."

These are not the words of a man who believes in "consensus leadership." If there is any such thing. He was not really the victim of a partisan conspiracy or even of an ideological conflict. He was merely the strongman in the middle, filling one day against those who wanted to go slower and the next against those who wanted to go faster, or take a different route.

In the process, he got caught in the crossfire of a great many contending forces. In building the largest institution of higher education in the nation he was blamed by the students who felt overwhelmed by its bigness. In temporizing with the so-called "free speech" movement, he not only aroused all the anti-intellectual forces in the state but troubled the moralists, and split the faculty.

In threatening publicly to resign in 1965 he irritated the regents, already embarrassed by what they regarded as the moral indifference on the campus at Berkeley. In standing out against tuition for university students he lost the support of those in the legislature who felt that middle-class parents in California could pay more than they were, and he even offended his relations with the regents and the legislature by seeming to react too sharply to the tuition issue with a sudden freeze on all university admissions.

Besides all this there are natural conflicts in the California state educational system which hurt him. The fast-growing and conservative south of the state has always resented the intellectual superiority, the liberalism and the larger endowments of the Berkeley Campus. The chancellors of the nine state university campuses are under but not always with the president on critical questions of planning and finance. And the state college system has its own aspirations and resentments against the more prestigious state university leaders.

The feeling against Governor Reagan and the regents for their clumsiness, insensitivity and even brutality in dismissing Kerr like an incompetent janitor is very strong. Faculty and students, who were remarkably silent when he really needed them, are now rallying to his support, but it is too late. As usual, the articulate and activist extremes have prevailed over the moderate and indifferent middle.

Nevertheless, Clark Kerr didn't lose his struggle at California, he only lost his job. This university could easily lose its freedom under a weak "consensus" president who didn't fight and merely stayed on. Kerr was neither. Like Frank Graham at the University of North Carolina, and many other university presidents, he may very well have dramatized and perpetuated the idea of a free university by fighting and losing.

No doubt California is going to have a faculty recruiting problem for a while but even this will pass, for Clark Kerr helped build an institution and a tradition that will survive even his departure and Governor Reagan's bad manners.

Disastrous Night For County Cagers

It was a black January 27 for all county basketball teams, with the exception of Warren. In the Upper Allegheny Valley League Youngsville fell to East Forest, 58-55; West Forest ripped Eisenhower 86-72, and Pleasantville walloped Tidioute 95-38. Sheffield dropped an Allegheny Mountain League contest to St. Marys by an 89-39 score. Ridgway bounced Johnsonburg to the tune of 83-58. Youngsville held the lead in the game for second place in the UVAL until the final six minutes of the game when the Bears came alive. Pat McClellan, as usual, paced the East Forest offense with 15 points, his lowest output of the season. Tom Kiehl came off the bench to score 14 and Bill Renton tallied 12 for the Bears. Milt Johnson led all scorers with 19 points. Ron Knapp and Bob Chisholm each scored 10 for the Eagles. The Eagles had a 30-24 lead at the half but it chipped to 41-40 after three periods. They were outscored in the final period by a 18-14 margin. The Youngsville JV's posted a 50-29 win over the East Forest junior varsity. Despite a 31 point performance by Bob Burlingame the Eisenhower Knights bowed to West Forest by a 86-72 score. Three other Knights hit double figures with Gary Fry tallying 14, Allen Swanson bucketed 13 and Bartor Lohnes hit for 10. Five of the Indians broke the ten-point barrier with Randy Custer hitting 18, Bob Kiser 17, Tony Kline 12, Larry Vermillion 11 and Al Flick 10. The Knights trailed by only three at the end of one quarter but finished the half with a 13 point deficit. In the second half they were outscored 38-37 by the Indians. The offense of Stan Perrett and Gregg Holtz completely wiped out the Tidioute Bulldogs last night by a 95-38 score. Perrett, with 33 and Holtz with 27, combined for 60 of the Falcons points. Perrett hit from all over the floor. He made 15 of his field goal attempts and missed very few. Holtz scored mostly on shots from in close as he maneuvered his 6-5 frame around the smaller Bulldogs.

Dragon Cagers, Matmen Romp Over Oilers

Hunter, Tundel Pace Cagers to Loop Win

Middleweights Come Thru in 28-16 Win

By JOHN GANLEY

There were no friends made last night on the WAHS hardwood as the Warren Dragons outthrust the Oil City Oilers to gain a 73-54 win in a Section II battle.

Both teams were guilty of over-anxiety to get to the ball and the referees, who did a good job considering the chore in front of them, were forced to stop the game 49 times because of fouls.

The two-man wrecking crew of Scott Hunter and Steve Tundel made a big difference in the game. Tundel was inserted into the game with five and a half minutes gone in the first quarter. During the remainder of the opening half he collected 11 points and 17 rebounds. Tundel finished the game with 21 missed shots in his collection. Hunter grabbed off 27 rebounds. The Dragons out-rebounded the Oilers 74 to 53. Of Hunter's 27 grabs 10 came off the offense boards and 17 were defensive rebounds.

Coach Joe Shantz went with a starting lineup made up of what he calls his hustlers. They were Hunter, Randy Jones, Mike Hesch, Mike Hackett and Marc Segal.

Oil City was forced to go without their high-scorer Dan Fry. He didn't make the trip because of a laceration of his ankle.

The Dragon defense did a good job holding the taller Oilers at bay. Mike Rose, Dean Henderson and Ron Tarr, all better than six-foot, were held to a total of 23 points.

Before the Dragons could start working together the Oilers jumped off to an 11-5 lead in the first period. At this point Tundel replaced Hackett and the parts seemed to fall into place.

Tundel got two quick baskets from in close. Segal dropped a long jumper and Hesch hit on a set from the corner. In the meantime the Oilers got a field goal from Dave Cramer and a foul from Dean Henderson to take a 14-13 lead after one quarter.

It didn't take the Dragons long to regain the lead in the second period. Hesch hit another long set to boost the Dragons to 15-14 margin. The Oilers regained their margin until a pair of fouls by Tundel evened the score at 20-20 with 5:06 left.

Tundel and Tarr exchanged field goals before two foul shots by Jones put the Dragons ahead for good with 4:12 left in the second period.

Scott Hunter, who didn't score a point in the first quarter, got his first field goal to give the Dragons a four point margin. In the remainder of the period Hunter scored five points and Tundel got three while all the Oilers could manage were two foul shots by Bob Hall.

As the teams went to the locker room the Dragons held a 34-24 lead. They outscored the visitors 21-10 in the second eight minutes.

In the second half the offense of Scott Hunter dominated the game. He fired home 26 of his 34 points in the last 16 minutes.

During the same period of time Oil City found the range for only 28 points. At the outset of the third period the Oilers cut the Dragons lead to five as Glenn Cunningham sank three points and Henderson added two. With 6:45 left the Dragons held only a 34-29 margin.

Oil City, in attempts to get the ball, continually fouled the Dragon players. In the next minute and a half the Dragons made only two of seven shots. The Oilers didn't score in this time.

With Scott scoring nine of the Dragons last 11 points of the period Warren managed to keep a 48-41 lead.

In the final period three Oilers fouled out to one for the Dragons. It wasn't the fouls that beat the Oilers, it was the shooting and rebounding of the Dragons 6-3 captain. He scored 15 points before being removed with about a minute left in the game.

Though Tundel and Hunter did the obvious work, a lot of credit should go to little Mike Hesch. He scored 11 points and was always hounding the Oil City offense.

Coach Shantz also deserves recognition. He switched the Dragons out of their man-to-man defense and into a zone. This might be the key to future Dragon successes.

In the junior varsity game the Oilers clipped the Dragon reserves by a 48-39 score. Rob Lorange tallied 15 and Larry Spence hit 10 for the locals.

Eisenhower Grapplers Get Seven Pins: Score 46-8

BY DICK SINE

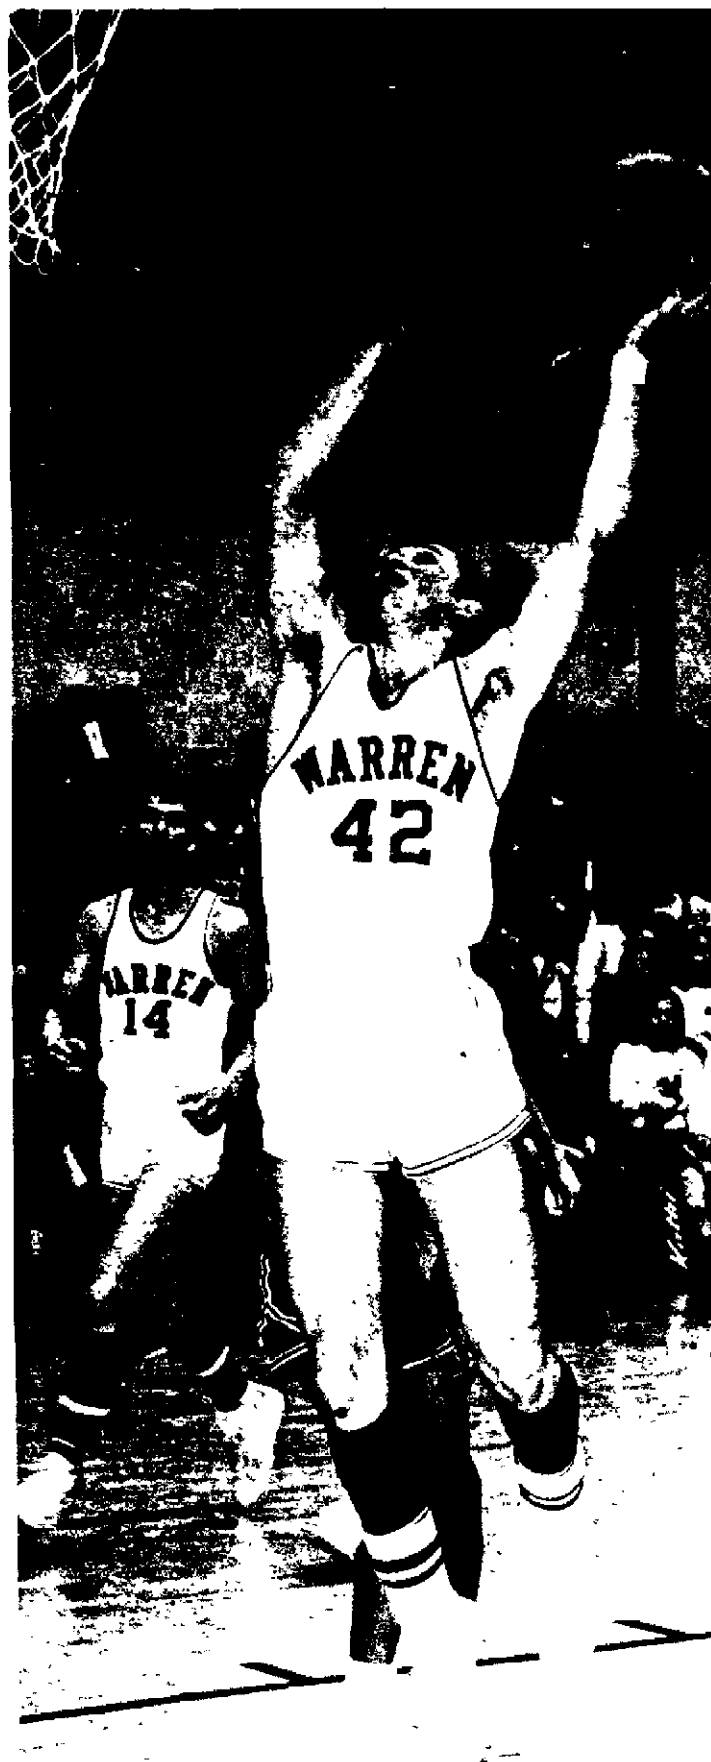

Eisenhower High School needs a new wrestling mat.

The old one took a severe beating last night when the Knights registered seven pins in a 46-8 stomping of visiting Westfield in a Southern Tier Wrestling Conference match.

Included in the runaway were three first period falls by Eisenhower. Under New York State rules—those that prevail in Southern Tier competition—no extra points are awarded. By Pennsylvania rules, six points are awarded for a first-period fall and five points for a fall in either of the other two frames.

Coach Don Johns' Knights came on like the wind and speedily increased to hurricane proportion. Westfield didn't score until the 12-20 bout, and then not again until the 165 titl. For the remainder of the night, it was ALL Eisenhower.

The match was contested before a record crowd at the Knight gym for wrestling action. Pete Block started it off for the Knights at 95 with a fall at 3:24. He had a takedown in the opening frame.

Owen Williams continued his undefeated streak at 103 with a fall in 3:36. Gary Gage had trouble at 112 and dropped a 6-2 decision to E. Torres. Torres tallied an escape, takedown and near fall. Gage had a reversal.

Freshman Paul Cathcart, in only his second varsity bout, notched a pin at 120 in 1:12—the fastest pin yet by a Knight grappler this season.

Gary Dalrymple kept the first-period string moving with a fall at 127 in 1:27. Paul Lindemuth, at 133 pounds, made it three in a row with a fall in 1:44.

Captain Dan Larson, slowing things down a little, needed 3:33 to pin his man at 138. Dave Burnett took care of Jackson at 145 by a 7-2 margin. Burnett tallied two reversals, a predicament and a point for an illegal hold by his opponent. Jackson scored his pair of points on a takedown.

Jim Martin scored his first win of the season with a 2-0 defeat over Poternosh. Martin scored on a takedown in the first period, the only scoring.

Tim Martin ran into some trouble at 165 and was on the short end of a fall in 1:32 to Brooker.

Harry Critzer needed 4:54 to pin his man at 180 pounds. Denny Harer caught Mas. caro in a hip roll in the second period and caused the Westfield grappler to default.

OIL CITY—Warren's middleweights came through last night as the Dragon wrestlers thumped Oil City, 28-16.

The victory was the sixth straight for the Webermen and boosted their Section II record to 4-0, setting up a showdown with Meadville next Friday for the conference title.

The Dragons did well in the lower weights, as expected, but it was a four-match win streak up the middle of the Warren lineup that turned the tide.

Frank Cataldo (95) and Dana Sorensen (103) took decisions, Doug Sorensen (120) pinned his opponent, then Steve Kaiser (133), Bill Shaffer (138), Mike Maines (145) and Corky Greenwood (154) all won on points to put the Dragons ahead 23-8.

Darrell Pusateri registered another fall for the locals at 180 to put the match out of reach.

In an 88-pound exhibition bout, Warren's Gail Sudul pinned his Oil City opponent after 37 seconds of the start of the first period.

Cataldo mauled Terry Caldwell of the Oilers, 11-1 in the 95-pound match to give the Dragons an early 3-0 lead and they were never headed.

Scoring points in every period, Cataldo did everything but pin Caldwell and Dana Sorensen followed with another whitewash at 103.

Sorensen handled Oil City's Jack Stralka easily, taking a 10-2 triumph, but Ted Rudolph put the Oilers on the scoreboard in the 112-pound battle with a second period fall over Brad Waxman. The pair was tied a 2-2 midway through the stanza, but Rudolph caught Waxman in a pinning combination and gained credit for the fall with 17 seconds showing on the clock.

Doug Sorensen quickly made up the points as he nalloed Ted Wilkinson after 1:14 of the second period. A takedown and two near-falls had given Sorensen an 8-0 edge at the time of the pin and the Dragons led, 11-5.

At 127, Johnny Hogue, the Oilers' ace, tried everything in his bag of tricks to pin Jim Mead, but had to be satisfied with a 13-2 decision.

Steve Kaiser started the Dragon runaway in the 133-pound class with a 5-3 triumph over Nick Collins. After a no-take-down first period, Kaiser scored first with a reversal midway through the second stanza, but surrendered an escape.

On the bottom in the last period, Kaiser needed only 15 seconds to switch Collins and take a 4-1 advantage. The Oiler regained the top position before the end of the match, but riding time gave Kaiser a two-point victory and Warren forged ahead, 14-8.

In the 138-pound match, Bill Shaffer of the Dragons took an early 2-0 lead on a first period takedown, then reversed Ken Young of Oil City in the middle stanza to go ahead, 4-0.

Young reversed Shaffer in the third period, but the Warren grappler switched back and over five minutes of riding time gave him an 8-2 triumph.

Mike Maines kept the Webermen rolling at 145 with a tough 6-3 win over Tim Hildebrand. The score knotted at 3-3 after two periods, but Maines, showing a lot of hustle and some outstanding moves, escaped midway through the last stanza, then took Hildebrand to the mat to cop a 6-3 decision.

Maines' win pushed the Dragons' lead to 20-8.

With a fine exhibition of clutch riding, Corky Greenwood gave Warren a big 23-8 edge with a mission. They outscored Youngsville 18-7 in the third quarter to take a 54-22 lead. Youngsville outscored Beaty 9-6 in the final six minutes.

Brabender Under Fire

Corry wrestling fans, it seems, are not taking last Tuesday's loss to the Dragons lightly, or so the Corry Journal reported Thursday.

Under the headline: "Official Challenged; Corry-Warren Wrestling Decision Still Draws Fire," a writer who failed to identify himself states that "Coach Bob Benson told The Journal this morning that he intends to file a written complaint about the matter."

The "matter," it appears, was the default awarded Warren at 154-pounds. The writer contends that the Dragon grappler picked Corry's wrestler from the mat and "slammed him down." Later in the paragraph he points out that "no penalty was made for the 'slam'."

Then, however, he quotes our column, in which we corrected the interpretation of a "slam" as a referee's judgment call, but fails to mention that, in the referee's judgment, there was no "slam" involved. Only the Corry faction, coach, wrestlers, fans and sports writers, are calling it a "slam," but—as in baseball—you cannot dispute an official's judgment.

Hence, a hundred letters to Brabender will not alter a fact that should have been settled at the time of the incident, not the next day.

As proof of Brabender's ineptitude, the Journal published a photo of, according to the caption, "Brabender . . . awarding two points to Warren's Mike Maines supposedly for a reversal, but at the instant at which this photo was taken, Maines did not have control over Corry's Rick Jaquith."

There are just one or two things wrong with Corry's "photo evidence". First of all, it isn't Maines and Jaquith in the picture at all, but Brad Waxman and Jim Seitz of the Beavers in the 112-pound bout, and it's a take-down, not a reversal. Secondly, the caption writer fails to take into consideration the fact that there is a certain lapse of time between the time the official sees control, calls it and gets his hand down again.

The fact that a wrestler on the bottom turns in does not alter the fact that the top man still has control. In fact, according to the record we kept at the match, Waxman recorded his only two-pointer in the first period, taking Seitz to the match with an arm-drag with 1:33 showing on the clock and rode him out for the rest of the period!

Good, Old Sour Grapes

The article concludes with a letter from a Corry fan, Mrs. B. Ongley, who accuses the official of cheating, that many of the Corry boys were pinned outside the ring and two others were not even pinned and "If other team coaches and the officials have to be unfair, how can the boys win."

The letter writer goes on to state that "Warren always makes sure their section games are at home. This is not fair . . . is Warren just privileged?"

Concluding with "this is not the first time this has happened at Warren," Mrs. B. Ongley says that "It is not fair to the boys and gives the other school quite a name (and I don't mean a good one)."

First of all, if Mrs. Ogley doesn't get hit with a libel suit, we should point out that last year's Warren-Corry Section II match was wrestled AT Corry on January 28, the Dragons winning, 28-17. If conduct is being questioned, we recall that Warren's heavyweight was badly bitten in that match and never have we seen a Warren fan charge onto the mat to challenge first the official and then the fans.

We lost at Corry earlier this year, but there were no demonstrations, no accusations and no letters to the editor.

As the old saying goes, "people in glass houses shouldn't throw rocks." No amount of sour grapes in the form of editorials or letters will alter the fact that Warren won the wrestling match, 36-17.

STEELE SHAVINGS—Bad news from Arizona State. Dick Thompson, the former Dragon mat great, has sustained a badly cut hand and will miss a big tourney this weekend. The "Tiger", who lost an argument with a pane of glass when he tripped, took 16 stitches, but hopes to be back in action in another week. He is now 6-3 on the season.

Judge Says Paul Owes On 1962 Car

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Tax Court ruled yesterday Paul Hornung, halfback of the Green Bay Packers, must pay taxes on a sports car he received in 1962 from a sports magazine.

Hornung received the car—a 1962 Corvette—from Sport magazine after he was named outstanding player in the National Football League championship game Dec. 31, 1961.

The court said also that Hornung does not have to pay taxes on a mink stole given to his mother by the Packers before the end of 1961.

Hornung had tried to prove that the Corvette was a gift from the magazine and not taxable under a provision of federal income tax law that exempts from taxation prizes given for educational, artistic, and civic achievement.

In his opinion, Judge Austin Hoyt said "in making this argument, Hornung shifts into a shotgun formation, contending that his accomplishments in a championship football game constitute educational, artistic, scientific and civic achievements. . . we believe that Hornung should be caught behind the line of scrimmage on this particular offensive maneuver."

Gannon's Win Streak In Jeopardy on Trip South

Gannon College's basketball team will carry a five-game win streak into a block of four road games in eight days beginning with a southern swing starting tonight in which they face Bellarmine in Louisville, Ky, and meet Tennessee State University in Nashville, Tenn. on Monday.

The other road games are at Providence on Feb. 2 and at Youngstown on Feb. 4. The Knights will finally return home on Feb. 6 to host Cheyney State. The Knights edged Buffalo State 78-74 in overtime on Wednesday of this week, their first game after an 11-day layoff.

Coach Denny Bayer's crew now has run its season record to 8-4, including consecutive victories over Belmont Abbey, Youngstown, Steubenville, Geneva and Buffalo State. Senior center Cal Graham of New York City, although standing only 6-3, continues to lead the Knights in scoring and rebounding with 17.6 and 10.9 averages respectively. Graham's free throw percentage of .844 is one of the tops in the nation.

To aid Graham underneath the boards, Bayer has been using a pair of 6-6 Freshmen, Ron Johnson of Camden, N.J., and Jim Lee of Ruston, La. Johnson has been a starter most of the season while Lee has been starting as of recent games.

Both have been improving. Both have been improving.

First Half Ends Today In Jr. Loop

The YMCA Junior Basketball League will end the first half of play today at the local Y gym.

The first game, starting at noon, pits the league-leading Knicks against the third place Warriors.

The Knicks, coached by Dan Krumm, boast the league's top scorer in Mark Torrance. He is averaging 16.4 points a game.

The Warriors, who have looked impressive in their last two outings, are coached by John Zawacki. Their leading scorer is Jim Hagg. He has a 14 point average.

The second game, which starts at 1 p.m., will feature the second-place Hawks against the cellar-dwelling Pistons.

The Hawks, with a 3-2 mark, are led by Mark Schaeffer and coached by Dan O'Neill.

After a good start the Pistons have lost their past few games and have a 1-4 record. Dean Spiridon is their leading scorer with a 14 point average.

This will mark the end of the first half, and with the renovation of the YMCA gym all second half games will be played at the High School at the regular times on Saturday.

UP AND OVER

High-flying Bob Seagren clears 16-7 in the Millrose games Thursday night to set a new meet record. He missed three tries at 17-2 in an attempt to break his own indoor mark of 17-1. Tonight he will compete in the Albuquerque Track and Field Open.

Bayer has been using Freshman Larry Daly in the starting line-up at times also and he has responded with a 6.4 scoring average. Freshman Sam Iacino and Senior Bob Rojik have been the top reserves.

His starting line-up for the upcoming games will definitely include Graham and Ruminski along with Johnson, Wiley and either Lee or Daly. Wiley has been bothered by bad knees this season.

Gannon will be meeting Bellarmine for the second time in the history of the two schools, with Gannon winning last year's game 83-65 at Gannon.

Bellarmino under new coach Jim Spalding raced off to an early 5-2 record but has slipped to 6-9. They faced Villa Madonna at home earlier this past week.

One of their losses was by 64-63 to DePaul University in Chicago, when the Kentuckians were called for inactive play with the game tied 59-59 and but 59 seconds remaining. The resulting technical gave DePaul the win. Another loss has been to major college Louisville and another to Steubenville 74-67, whom Gannon defeated 67-61.

Bellarmino has been beset by the ineligibility of 6-6 center Mike Clark but added 5-11 John Wolf and 6-5 Jack Wayne to the roster recently, to join small college All American Phil Popp and Jim Fisher. The leading scorer for Bellarmine has been Popp with a 16.5 average while 6-5 Jim Schurtranz has a 12.2 average and Bob Albers, a 6-3 forward, a 13.3 margin.

Tennessee State's Tigers beat Gannon 72-61 on the Knights floor earlier this year and now have a 14-4 record. They meet Central State on Jan. 27 before facing Gannon. They recently defeated Youngstown 71-56.

The big Blues are led by 6-5 Henry Watkins, 6-9 Ed Johnson, 6-3 Obie Snyder and 6-6 Dwight Waller. Engineering this attack is 5-7 Bobby Clive, who replaces the ineligible Phillip Scott.

Both Watkins and Johnson are averaging 15 points a game while Snyder has a 13 per game average.

Ring Magazine Will Not Name Fighter of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second time since it started making an annual award, Ring Magazine has passed up naming a Fighter of the Year because it frowned on some of the non-boxing activities of heavyweight champion Cassius Clay.

The boxing monthly said that strictly on the basis of his ring achievements, which included five title defenses during the year, Clay deserved the Fighter of the Year citation for 1966.

"The Fighter of the Year must be recognized as an example to the growing American boy," the magazine said, adding that Clay did not qualify this year. It pointed out that Ring awarded Clay the citation in 1963.

Since 1963, Ring said, Clay has allied himself with the Black Muslims, "who avowedly are not friendly toward the United States of America," said Ring; has protested his draft into the Army, and "has been guilty of utterances which have not redounded to the credit of boxing."

Ring said that it passed up the 1933 award, which it said should have gone to heavyweight champion Primo Carnera of Italy, because of the calibre of people handling Carnera's business.

After disqualifying Clay, Ring named the following as the 1966 stickouts: 1, light heavyweight champion Dick Tiger, Nigeria; 2, middleweight champion Emil Griffith, New York; 3, lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, New York; 4, welterweight champion Curtis Cokes, Dallas, and 5, featherweight champion Vicente Saldivar.

Massengale Takes Two Lead at Los Angeles

By BOB MYERS Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Massengale, bounding back from a disheartening performance in the Bing Crosby golf tournament last week, caught and passed Arnold Palmer in the second round of the $100,000 Los Angeles Open yesterday.

Playing behind Palmer, who forged to a temporary lead with a seven-under par 64, the 29-year-old Massengale came in with a 65 and a 36-hole total of 132, tying the tournament record for this distance at 132.

Palmer, with a first round 70 as compared to Massengale's

67, hit the mid-way mark with 134.

Massengale from the little Texas hamlet of Jacksboro, 60 miles north of Ft. Worth, won the Crosby event in 1966, as well as the Canadian Open. But last week he couldn't break 80 in the four rounds at Pebble Beach.

Jack Cupit, the first-round leader with a 66, shot 71 yesterday to go into a four-way tie at 137.

Masters king Jack Nicklaus, admittedly trying to cure a hook, dropped back to 143 with a 74 over the par 36-35-71 Rancho Golf Club course.

The weather remained sunny, but par was a little more elusive than it was the first day.

National Open champion Billy Casper Jr. added a 70 to his first-round 72 for 142.

Nicklaus, remaining his usual good-natured self, explained his plight.

"I started out bogeying the first three holes, and I never could get going," he said, adding with a grin, "I played like I usually do at the first of the year. You can say I got back on my game."

Palmer was reminded that a year ago in the third round he shot a sensational 62. How did his game Friday compare with it?

"From tee to green I'd say I played even better than the 62," Arnie replied.

Massengale, a former golf star at Texas Christian University, said this was his best two consecutive rounds since he turned pro in 1960. His 132 tied the tournament record set in 1956 by Lloyd Mangrum.

Was he interested in a 72-hole record?

"I don't worry about records," the tall Texan said. "I've just got some guys I've got to beat — 142 of them."

Massengale didn't name any names but later conceded that at this point one of the guys to beat is Palmer.

Scores of 145 and under made the cut, which left 86 players eligible for the final rounds today and tomorrow.

Tied with Cupit at 137 were Bill Martindale, with a 70 Friday; Bert Yancy, 67, and Gay Brewer, 70.

Deadlocked at 138 were Bob Rosburg, with his second straight 69; Bob Goalby, the recent San Diego Open winner, 68; Chuck Courtney, 70, and Johnny Pott, 70.

Massengale, who said he normally plays better a little later in the winter and spring, made the tour in 32-33-65. The round included six birdies and no bogeys.

"I was driving well and didn't miss many greens," Don continued. Actually, he missed only two and each time recovered. On the 11th he overshot the green and chipped back 1½ feet from the cup, and on the 17th he chipped up six inches from the cup. He parred each of the two holes.

On an expenditure basis, assistance grants in the county climbed from $30,113 during October to $30,805 in November.

A breakdown of the latest relief expenditure in the county shows that $13,447 was paid out to 200 persons receiving old age assistance, $7048 went to 204 receiving aid to dependent children assistance, $4006 to 37 receiving aid to disabled assistance, $3762 to 32 receiving state blind pensions, $1690 to 22 receiving state blind pensions and $852 to 14 persons in the county receiving general assistance.

Youth Who Stole Car Returned

The Wellsboro, Pa. police chief and Tioga County probation officer arrived in Warren yesterday to return a 16-year old youth, injured on Route 59 early Thursday morning when the stolen car which he was driving crashed.

The chain of events leading up to the juvenile's apprehension was clarified by police officers.

Following the accident at 1:15 a.m., in which the stolen vehicle was demolished, the Wellsboro youth slept during the night near the scene in a sleeping bag. Police said he then hitched a ride into Warren borough and entered the rest room of a local service station.

While state troopers continued their investigation of the crash and were seeking the operator of the wrecked car, borough police officer James Neall found some bloody rags in the rest room. Checking with police clerk James Loding as to whether an injured person was being sought and having heard of the stolen car incident, Neall was advised, after Loding called state police, that such a suspect was being sought.

Warren General Hospital was called and advised no such person had been there for treatment. The juvenile, however, according to police, went to Gaugh's Drug Store to purchase bandages but was told, due to the nature of his leg wound, to go to the hospital emergency room. Borough police apprehended the youth there and turned the suspect over to state police.

Rex Chainbelt Hikes Dividend For Third Year

MILWAUKEE—Directors of Rex Chainbelt Inc. today increased the company's regular quarterly dividend by 25 percent to 37½ cents a share. The dividend declared is payable February 25, 1967 to shareholders of record February 6, 1967.

Dividends, including both regular and extra, declared during the past fiscal year ended October 31, 1966 totaled $1.50, the highest in the company's history. On an annual basis, this increased regular quarterly rate will equal the total dividends declared last year.

This is the third consecutive year in which the company has increased its regular quarterly dividend rate, the most recent increase being the change from 25 cents to 30 cents a share effective January, 1966.

A succession of increases in the regular dividend rate has been made possible not only through continuing improved economic conditions but more importantly through the company's realization of its policy of increasing product and market diversification.

Plan Survey Of County Watershed

Lyle Cathcart, Work Unit Conservationist in charge of Warren County Soil Conservation Service, reports that a survey team will begin about February 1st on a watershed survey in Warren County.

The first study will be of the Tionesta Valley, in the Sheffield Area. The second will survey the Brokenstraw watershed.

The survey will be concerned with general conditions on these areas, flood control erosion, sources of water pollution, etc.

Each survey is expected to require about 30 days to complete. The team will include three watershed specialists, from the Pennsylvania headquarters of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, in Harrisburg. The group will also employ two assistants locally, for the duration of the survey.

Cathcart explains that this work is being performed under Section 206 of the Appalachia Program, with funds appropriated for watershed studies throughout Pennsylvania; particularly in the western areas.

Much of the data acquired will be basic information in the general program for clean streams, conservation of water resources, for the benefit of local communities, and the national interest.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

Not long ago, I saw a political cartoon which I think pointed up the paradox of modern-day sports. It's an old question and one which Dave Fay, the former sports editor of the former Times Mirror, hammered away at quite often.

Football is almost a year-round thing. The cartoon cited above, for instance, carried the mention that a certain city, had the attitude that if they didn't build an indoor stadium, they'd lose all hopes of getting football during February, March and April.

There's merit in that. For instance, the football season is supposed to be over with the Bowl games, which have more names than anyone can keep track of. Then come the all-star games and they carry those who don't keep track of basketball right up to the golf season. Just about the time when you're tired of baseball (who would dare?), there's another college all-star football game.

It's gone beyond the fall spectacular it once was, this game of grid. During the summer months, you can read about the summer camps and who has signed with what teams and what's the going price for the top holdout. You can hear endlessly about the permanent injuries, retirements, drafts, marriages, and even the juicy stories about the star fullback raked up in the courtroom in a nice scandal.

Well, it's over for now and I for one am glad. If I sound bitter, it's just because I've concluded a losing season. Time, they say, heals all things and that may be true; still, I'm writing my congressman to see if I can't write off my losses as business expenses.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 13-year-old boy who has a very embarrassing mother. She has put up 24 signs around the house (I counted them) and they are enough to make a person sick. These signs are not little reminders, they are great big slogans painted on short cardboards.

One sign says, "TURN OFF THE LIGHTS." Another sign says, "KEEP YOUR FEET OFF THE FURNITURE." The sign on my closet wall says, "DON'T THROW IT ON THE FLOOR. HANG IT UP." The sign I hate most is the one over the bathtub. It says, "CLEAN THE TUB AND HANG UP THE TOWELS." I am ashamed to have guys over to my house because they die laughing. They want to go from room to room looking for more signs. They wouldn't think it was so funny if they had to look at these dumb things day and night like I do.

Please tell me what to do. — S.O.S. (SICK OF SIGNS)

DEAR S.O.S.: Apparently your mother put the signs up after she had talked herself hoarse and didn't get any place.

Ask her to please remove the signs and you will prove to her that you don't need them. Then prove it, Buddy Boy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope every girl who is footing the bill for her boyfriend in the service will cut it out after she reads your wise, down-to-earth answer to "Willing to Pay." I was one of those nutty girls who thought she was in love with the most wonderful guy in the world. He enlisted in the Army and was stationed two hours from town. Every weekend I took my dad's car (often without permission) and drove to see him. I paid for our movie tickets, meals, gas and I bought him cigarettes. Now that I think back I can't recall that he ever spent two cents on me. I even put money in the parking meters. When he was transferred I sent him air fare and pocket money so he could come to see me. This went on for over a year. Then I received a "Dear Jane" letter. He had met his dream girl and they were getting married. He hoped I would understand. What a bitter pill to swallow. But swallow it I did, and now I am a lot wiser. I wouldn't give Rock Hudson a dime to call me on the phone. — FINALLY WOKE UP

DEAR WAKE: Thanks for a good letter. Take that, and that, and that, you free-loaders.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please keep telling teen-age girls to forget about marriage. I know they hate to hear it, but maybe if they hear it often enough it will soak in. I wouldn't listen either. I was 18 when I married. At age 20 I had two children and a third one at 25. We will soon celebrate our 15th anniversary and I shudder to think of how close we came to calling it quits.

The first three years were terrible. Every week one of us would threaten to call a divorce lawyer. Although we are happy now, I would never recommend marriage to an 18-year-old girl. There are so many disappointments and letdowns. A girl should be at least 22 before she can absorb the shock of finding out what married life is really like — BATTLE WEARY BUT VICTORIOUS

DEAR VIC: I know they hate to hear it but I'm going to continue to print letters like yours as long as my typewriter holds together. Thanks for writing.

Parisian Maggy Rouff Shows

Fashions

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

Guy Duvrier, Maggy Rouff's designer, said he chose this emphasis "to give women clothes in which they will feel relaxed and happy."

He translates this into figure-skimming sheaths, topped by tailored suit jackets and faced in traditional white touches. The sleeves are often short, the jacket cut to be worn open. There are minishirt boleros with minipuffed sleeves. The jacket is often white, contrasting with the dress.

Waists are dropped to the hip-line and often belted in white leather. A deep flounce placed below the hipline to above the knees takes care of skirt fullness. This is found on dresses and follows through in coats. Charming shantung sheaths in bright colors step forth with their own boleros. Bicolor effects are introduced in yokes and repeated in the bolero.

Throughout, Maggy Rouff plays with the waistline: it's very low, quite high or absent. Jean Louis Scherrer showed a sophisticated, elegant collection. He favors capucine, nasturtium, red, turquoise, luminous greens and plaids. In his street suits and coats his millinery is of the same coat or suit plaid.

He goes to southern Spain for inspiration, returning with chin-strapped caballero hats and brief boleros. White starched boiled linen trims suits, appearing in collars and cuffs.

What is contemporary art? Is it inner soup cans or atomic shoe shapes? Is it masses and swirls of color? Or is it paintings by Picasso, Mondrian or Klee? More important will contemporary art fit into your home? The Picture and Frame Institute is very concerned with all these questions. Contemporary art is a beautiful picture of everyday life and it is abstract designs. It is also true-to-life paintings of landscapes, still-lives and people. Famous artists and less well-known ones. Contemporary art is a varied field of study. It is a field of study that is growing and changing and its many theories are available to all people.

With a choice of contemporary art in your home, the history of art is becoming a living picture. It is a picture of the past and the future. It is a picture of the world as it is and as it will be. THE HAIR MAY BECOME DULL AND UNRULY AND NOW AND THEN DRY AND THIN. VARIOUS MICRO-ORGANISMS LIVE IN THE SCALES BUT WHETHER THEY ARE HARMLESS INTRUDERS OR ACTUALLY CAUSE DANDRUFF IS A DISPUTED SUBJECT. A YEAST-LIKE ORGANISM, FOR EXAMPLE, IS FOUND FREQUENTLY, YET IT HAS BEEN ISOLATED JUST AS OFTEN FROM THOSE WITHOUT DANDRUFF.

Not everyone with scaly flakes on the scalp has dandruff. Psoriasis is one of the exceptions. In this disease the scales have a silvery sheen and are heavy and coarse. Furthermore, involvement of the skin or nails may co-exist, which helps in establishing the diagnosis. Ringworm often is mistaken for dandruff and in some instances scaldness represents unusual dryness of the skin which has existed since birth.

There are many remedies but, in general, successful treatment requires the following regimen: perseverance, the frequent use of a soapy shampoo, and the application of a scalp lotion or ointment. Ordinary green or tar soap works as well as anything. Several ointments are available but during the last decade selenium sulfide seems to be holding its own. This prescription product is simple to use and not only relieves itching but controls scaling. Several applications may be necessary to keep the scalp clear.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

ALCOHOLIC PSYCHOSIS

J. Z. writes: What is Korsakoff's psychosis?

REPLY

A type of insanity resulting from years of overindulgence in alcohol. The victim suffers from memory failure, emotional disturbances, and what is called "retrograde falsification" in which tall tales are told about imaginary experiences. Neuritis in various parts of the body and cirrhosis of the liver often accompany the condition.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR SATURDAY, JANUARY 28, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—A good period for healthful thinking and observations, getting on under your "own steam." There's more to this sort of durability than is lightly thought of. Timing counts, too.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—No extremes. You can go along nicely, managing your own talents ably. May be a hitch or two, but that goes with everyday living. Keep thinking in terms of QUALITY.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—If you see you need more information, get it from careful sources. Don't be too unpredictable—sometimes it reacts against your thinking instead of with it, as you want it to.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Professionals, students, home and nature lovers can have a field day now, with the myriad of opportunities and expansion in areas that have been forgotten or have bogged down.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—You can only emphasize power successfully if you have discipline. There are greater ways of improving what you have, and we hope you'll take the chance to act on this availability.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Some of the maze is clearing, but there still are nullifying factors and difficult sledding with which to cope—and you CAN. Try for sustained effort; be sensibly calm within.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—A deadlock, a sort of predicament? Sol. You have met these before! It will actually be whether you are patient and willing to try again through thoughtful system and discussion that will matter.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—You may have to reject some terms, some plans, but there should be alternates, so look for them. Don't merely cut off reassurances and negotiations. Don't forget lessons learned.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Some groups and people are plodding in one direction, and some as firmly in another. Don't put off decisions or make any too hastily. Note new designs and "dreams."

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—What is worth while must needs be difficult!—very old saying and belief—and proof of the pudding! Meet the best qualifications and you will be happiest.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Separate departments and programs, administrative needs, and ways to "go back to school" loom for even the most sophisticated and learned. Study terms and criticism well.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Not speed, but stability; not cunning, but counselling, are the winning duo. A well-made plan has a discussion stage first, includes all types of thinking before the weeding out of the inappropriate.

YOU BORN TODAY: Heady, can be the finest representative possible, yet can embrace difficulty without realizing it, and get yourself into problems you needn't have. You detect defects quickly, may be too short or brusque-seeming to others because you have already drawn conclusions. It is well to re-evaluate, because those other heads may have a new viewpoint or accomplishment-area you overlooked. Don't be unhappy about some developments that do not please, just keep plugging and digging and you will converge on right answers. Don't get "mad" at drastic influences; deal quietly, patiently with them. Many scientists, experimenters here. Some errors to overcome. Birthdate: John Baskerville, Eng. printer; many sculptors, artists.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1967 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

DANDRUFF REMEDIES

Dandruff is a constant flaking off of the outer layers of the scalp. The scales are pieces of dead skin and are not, as many believe, particles of dried oil. The bran-like flakes are gray or white in color and are more unpleasant from the aesthetic than the physical point of view. The only harmful aspect of dandruff is the irritation produced by scratching and the dermatitis and loss of hair that follows neglect.

When the disorder is severe, the powdery scales fall off whenever the hair is combed and brushed, or the scalp is scratched. If the scalp is studied carefully the scales are seen to accumulate in round patches until they are shed. Thereafter, they gather along the hair shaft or fall on the shoulders like snow.

The hair may become dull and unruly and now and then dry and thin. Various micro-organisms live in the scales but whether they are harmless intruders or actually cause dandruff is a disputed subject. A yeast-like organism, for example, is found frequently, yet it has been isolated just as often from those without dandruff.

Not everyone with scaly flakes on the scalp has dandruff. Psoriasis is one of the exceptions. In this disease the scales have a silvery sheen and are heavy and coarse. Furthermore, involvement of the skin or nails may co-exist, which helps in establishing the diagnosis. Ringworm often is mistaken for dandruff and in some instances scaldness represents unusual dryness of the skin which has existed since birth.

WEEK'S PREVIEW

If you are attracted by youth, beauty and talent zero in on ABC's special at 9:30 tonight, locally on WKBW, "Hollywood Stars of Tomorrow."

Sunday brings several attractions, notably the debut of a CBS series at 6 p.m. on WBEN, WSEE and WFBG. "1st Century" promises to be as informative and exciting as its predecessor, "20th Century." NBC brings "The Sounds and Sights of San Francisco" into your living room at 6:30 Sunday night on WGR, WJAC and WICU and later, at 10 p.m., takes you on a tour of Britain's royal palaces and a look-see at one of the world's most fabulous art collections.

CBS also premieres a new drama series at 9 o'clock Sunday night. The first CBS Playhouse presentation is about a soldier in Vietnam in 1963 and is called "The Final War of Oily Winter." CBS Reports on Tuesday night sounds fascinating, dealing as it does with the human mind and how it is healed and enhanced by the use of drugs.

Hallmark Hall of Fame offers its first special of the season with "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" at 9:30 Thursday night on WGR, WJAC and WICU. ABC Stage 67 at 10 Thursday night takes you back to England for the second time in less than a week, this time to tour London at night with David Frost. A documentary on China's attitude toward the West today will be presented by ABC Friday night at 9:30 on WKBW, WJAC and WICU under the title "China: The Roots of Madness."

Two events brighten the sports scene this weekend. The Los Angeles Invitational Golf Open may be seen Saturday and Sunday on WFBG and the finals will be aired Sunday on WSEE also. WGR, WJAC and WICU will carry the Orange Bowl Regatta Sunday afternoon, which features speed boat championships.

WPSX-TV OFFERS

Exciting and varied is the fare on our educational television channel this coming week. And fortunate are those whose cable service operators make this reception possible for their customers.

At 8:30 Monday night the first in-depth documentary on the recent upheavals in Indonesia will be seen. The central figure is Sukarno, liberator and dictator of Indonesia.

Two special programs on the U.S. Senate's Foreign Relations Committee hearings are scheduled for Tuesday night at 7:30 and Wednesday night at 7. Topics will be "The Communist World 1967" and "Asia, the Pacific, and the United States."

Harrison Salisbury, the New York Times assistant managing editor whose reports on U.S. bombings of North Vietnam have drawn a barrage of criticism and controversy, will describe his observations in an hour-long TV appearance at 8:00 Wednesday night. This will be followed by the Play of the Week production, Elmer Rice's "The Grand Tour," starring Audrey Meadows and Scott McKay in a story about a New England schoolteacher who takes her small inheritance and embarks on a "grand tour" of Europe.

The lore of Punxsutawney's famous groundhog and his shadow will be a major topic at 8:30 p.m. Thursday. Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield will be interviewed Friday night at 7:30 on "Men of the Senate" and NET Playhouse presents Arthur Miller's adaptation of "An Enemy of the People" at 8:30 p.m. James Daly and Kate Reid star in this attack on hypocrisy of a complacent society that prefers corruption to painful reality.

'SOUTH PACIFIC' ALL SUMMER

NEW YORK (AP) — The Music Theater Festival at Lincoln Center is being cut back to a single production next summer. For the past three seasons two revivals were staged annually.

Ours is a deficit operation," says Richard Rodgers, president of the operation. "Because of a short season we have not been able to recover production costs. We have also decided to eliminate the tour after the New York stand."

South Pacific has been chosen for this year, slated to run from June 13 until Sept. 9.

In another management change, Rodgers' son-in-law, Henry Guttentag, has resigned as general manager to take another theatrical assignment.

Clarendon WSCS Plans Series Of Activities

The regular monthly meeting of the Clarendon Methodist WSCS was held in the Fellowship Rooms of the church with 16 members present. The meeting was opened with brief devotions by the president, Mrs. Emma Miller. Routine reports were heard and approved, concerning Communications.

Mrs. Gladys Burns reported receiving literature on tooth brush selling. Mrs. Madge Morrison reported on budget change in the district cultivation fund. It was also reported that The World's Day of Prayer will be on Feb. 10th and the rummage sale will take place on March 8th and 9th. Mite Box collection will be at the April meeting. Chairman of the rummage sale will be Mrs. Ernest Nollinger, with Mrs. Bruce Burns in charge of advertising.

A discussion was then held on having a class, or services on Missions in February. The recommended text is "Keepers of The Poor". It was decided to have two special family type programs for all members of the church. Feb. 12th program committee is Mrs. Ernest Nollinger, Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. Kenneth Knight; Feb. 19th program committee, Mrs. George Morrison, Mrs. Orval McBride, and Mrs. Nila Beth Crouse.

The president appointed a nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Bruce Burns, Mrs. Wayne Kinch and Miss Rachel Wood. Mrs. Miller announced that the next meeting will take place on Feb. 21st, with Mrs. Myron Bullock as leader, and Mrs. Mervyn Campbell and Mrs. Nila Beth Crouse as hostesses.

The meeting was then directed by Mrs. McBride, program leader. Her topic for the evening was, "The Christian and the Muslim." Hymn Prayers were read by Mrs. Charles Schneider and Mrs. Crouse. The Hymn "Lead Kindly Light" was sung by the group. Mrs. McBride and Mrs. Morrison took part in a dialogue with Mrs. Morrison as the Missionary and Mrs. McBride, the Muslim. The ensuing remarks brought out many interesting points in the thoughts of the Muslim towards the Christian people. Questions from the Methodist Women were led by Mrs. Mervyn Campbell.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ernest Nollinger and Mrs. Kenneth Knight.

Seek to Extend Wildlife Area In Crawford

WASHINGTON — Congressman Joseph P. Viorito reported Thursday that steps are underway to acquire additional land in Crawford County to benefit the Erie National Wildlife Refuge.

The proposal put forth by the bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife of the U.S. Department of the Interior is to acquire 4,497 acres of land presently under 31 ownerships in the Seneca Division of the refuge. The majority of the land is in Rockdale Township, with smaller sections overlapping into Richmond and Cambridge townships.

The 4,497 acres purchased by the federal government will be combined with 1,600 acres now in state hands to complete the entire Seneca division.

Area Men in The Services

Phillip Anthony Pompilio, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Pompilio, 15 Cedar St., left on Jan. 20th to serve with the U.S. Air Force. He is presently stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., where he will receive his basic training.

Phillip is a graduate of Warren Area High School, class of 1965, and a recent graduate of the Gale Institute of IBM, Indianapolis, Ind.

Crawford Will Give To Industrial Fund

MEADVILLE — The Crawford County Commissioners voted 2-0 with minority member Harold Turner abstaining, to grant the Meadville Area Industrial Development Commission (MAIC) $7,500 in fiscal year 1967.

MAIC had requested a 10-year commitment of $7,700 each year for a total of $77,000, but the county commissioners said their solicitor ruled this was illegal.

In passing the MAIC appropriation, Commissioners Ralph H. Wagner and Earl W. Austin noted "appropriate action will be taken in future years." They made it clear that this left the door open for future grants in years ahead if the industrial development plans materialize.

SENTIMENTAL COLLECTION

Reference Librarian Mary Elizabeth Allen arranged display of old-time Valentines from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. R. Pierson Eaton in Warren Public Library. Many were popular around the turn of the century. Some are humorous items. (Photo by Hoff)

Man Dies In Blast

FARRELL, Pa. (AP)—An explosion demolished a house in this Mercer County town yesterday and killed its only occupant—a man seeking a gas leak. The victim was LaVerne Fore, 22, who went to the house to investigate after the regular occupants complained of smelling gas.

Mrs. Mildred Jones, wife of an Army captain on duty in Vietnam, and her three children left the house Thursday night and moved in with relatives.

Mrs. Jones rented the house from Fore's father.

Mothers' March At Sugar Grove

SUGAR GROVE — Arrangements have been completed for the annual March of Dimes in Sugar Grove, scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 31, at 6:30 p.m.

Residents of the community are asked to turn on their porch lights to assist the mothers in the visitation of all homes.

The local effort is being sponsored by the Sugar Grove Preschool Mothers' Group, working in cooperation with the Zonta Club of Warren, county-wide sponsors for the annual appeal.

Support of residents of the community is solicited by the mothers' group in the yearly canvass.

Harvey Schaffer will discuss Feeding and Reproduction on February 23.

Final clinic will be under William Johnstone, on Milk Marketing, on March 2.

Information may be obtained by phoning the extension office in the Court House: 723-7550. It will be helpful, Wingert says, if they may know in advance how many are coming, in order that the necessary supplies may be ordered from the university. A small enrollment fee will cover cost of weekly coffee and cookies at break time.

New Rates For Cabins In Parks

HARRISBURG—New rates for rental of family vacation cabins and camp sites in Pennsylvania State Parks were announced yesterday by Maurice K. Goddard, Secretary of Forests and Waters.

The new rates reflect the first increase since the start of the 1962 camping season. They are as follows:

1. Camp sites with primitive facilities: $1.25 per night.
2. Camp sites with modern facilities: $1.75 per night.
3. Family vacation cabin rents have been increased $1 per night.

"These increases," the secretary said, "are due to the additional cost for maintaining and administering these facilities for public use."

Inquiries relating to the rental of State Park family cabins and camp sites may be directed to any one of the following: State Parks Regional Office No. 1, Box 390, Emporium, Pa. 15334; State Parks Regional Office No. 2, R.D. 1, Prospect, Pa. 16052; State Parks Regional Office No. 3, Schellsburg, Pa. 15559; State Parks Regional Office No. 4, Quakertown, Pa. 18951; or, to the Department of Forests and Waters, Bureau of State Parks, Education Building, Harrisburg, Pa. 17120.

Dairy Feeding Clinics Planned At Sugar Grove

County Agent Bernard Wingert announces a series of dairy feeding clinics, to be conducted by four Penn State College specialists. They are open to the public. They will be held in the Sugar Grove Fire Hall at 1:30 on all five dates.

Richard Adams will conduct the opening clinic on Feeding and Herd Health, February 2.

Don Ace will be in charge of the clinic on Heifer and Calf Feeding, February 9, and Dry and Fresh Cow Feeding, February 16.

Harvey Schaffer will discuss Feeding and Reproduction on February 23.

Final clinic will be under William Johnstone, on Milk Marketing, on March 2.

Information may be obtained by phoning the extension office in the Court House: 723-7550. It will be helpful, Wingert says, if they may know in advance how many are coming, in order that the necessary supplies may be ordered from the university. A small enrollment fee will cover cost of weekly coffee and cookies at break time.

Erie Has Engaged Traffic Engineer

ERIE — William T. Jackman, 34-year-old Cleveland engineer, Thursday night was hired by the Metropolitan Traffic Council as the Greater Erie area's traffic engineer.

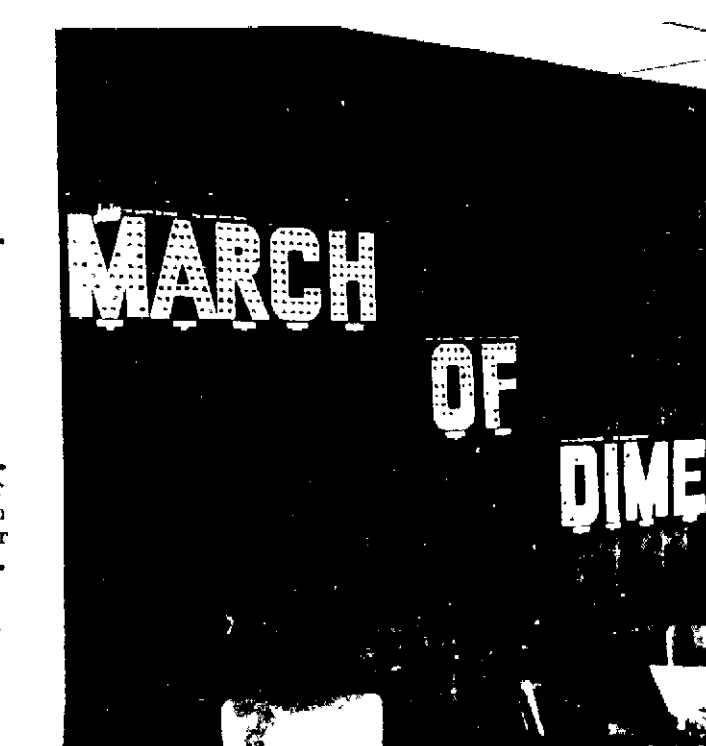

Jackman, who is presently serving as manager of the Traffic and Highway Engineering Department for the Cleveland Automobile Club, will begin at a salary of $14,000 with a first year increment to $700. Maximum salary was set at $15,200.

He said that despite past Appalachian highway program aid there are still gaps in many areas of Pennsylvania, notably the north-south Rte. 219.

4-H Roller Skating Class Opens Today

The county-wide 4-H roller skating class today has already enrolled more than 50 young people from clubs around Warren County. All 4-H members or potential members are welcome to attend this skating party today from 4:30 to 6:30 at the Warren Roll Arena.

Group instruction in roller skating will be given by Tony Pellegrino, proprietor of the Roll Arena.

THEY DID IT AGAIN!

The members of Warren Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, are as generous as "John D." in tossing their dimes around, as you can see from the above boards, which they have again filled for the 1967 March of Dimes. The Moose filled their first board early in the week and came up yesterday with another one, far outdistancing the other clubs assisting in the campaign, sponsored by the Zonta Club.
